

Sample of a Five Paragraph Essay

Living in the Country or the City

When choosing where to live, there are many options. Some people prefer to live in the country while others prefer the city life. Both have their advantages and disadvantages, but if I were to choose, I would pick living in the city. I prefer to live in the city because it is diverse, convenient, and exciting.

First, I would prefer to live in the city because there is more diversity there. In the city, there are many kinds of people who come from many walks of life. While in the country there are mostly farmers, every profession is represented in the cities, and if I choose to live there, I can find a job doing whatever it is I like to do. By interacting with different types of people, I will learn a lot more in the city.

Another reason I would choose to live in the city over the country is that the city is convenient. In the country, the nearest school or store may be many miles away; however, in the city, everything is close by. Even if you don't have a car, the city provides public transportation which the country doesn't since there isn't a demand. I want to live in a place where everything I need is close by.

Finally, the most important reason I would choose to live in the city over the country is that it is exciting in the city. The country is laid back and slower paced. Meanwhile, the city is always bustling with activity day and night. There are many opportunities in the city to do things that the country doesn't provide, such as museums, fancy restaurants, and concerts. There is always something fun and exciting going on in the city.

Country life has advantages of its own, but city life is unique and dynamic. If you want to live in a place where something is always happening, city life is for you. With its diversity, convenience, and excitement, the city offers a lifestyle which will teach you new things, allow you to meet new and interesting people, and is fun and exciting. Some people may prefer country life, but for me, I'll always be a city girl.
